Notes on the 02/26/2024 BOE Meeting

I initially set out to write a re-cap of the February 26, 2024 Berkeley Heights Board of Education meeting, but assuming no one wants to read an article similar in length to War and Peace, instead I want to focus on the overarching problems and take-aways from this meeting. There are still quite a few, but let's see how far it can be boiled down.....Read More

Attorneys and Improper Motions

Sometimes watching the discussion portions of BOE meetings is like watching C-SPAN. Like, what is going on, and why am I wasting my time with this? Is this really what governance looks like?

Why can't they just pass this stuff in an efficient manner?

Lucky you, I'm here to tell you why.Read More

Big Questions Get Little Time and Explanation

After the community discovered that the District submitted the Audit without a public presentation and BOE awareness, we finally had a presentation on the Audit.

Gale Bradford ensured the process was rushed, through the improper use of her position as president – BOE Members only had 16 minutes to ask about a $65 Million Spend....Read More

We received the following email chain for publication from Resident Matthew Behne regarding a potential Open Public Meetings Act violation on the part of the District, along with what was missing information on BOE Meetings on the District Website...Read More

Social Media Has Been Good For Berkeley Heights Government

Social Media is Not the Problem – We Are

Vaccines, Presidential Elections, and COVID-19 – are three phenomena that come to mind when we hear the shrieks about the dangers of social media.

Americans are almost famous for the degree of polarized thinking they apply to virtually any situation. There are no excellent Republican ideas, no good ideas coming from Democrats, and only when one embodies beliefs wholesale are they qualified or legitimate in the eyes of whatever cult whose support they rely on or are trying to acquire.....Read More
